SOCIAL CHATTER AND HOME TALK

NOTWITHSTANDING the wind and rain of last Saturday it was a jolly house-party which wended its way to the Tantalus residence of the Waterhouses—a most complete and satisfactory house to spend the week's end—the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Waterhouse. Some of the men walked up from the Castle trail, among them being James Wilder, fresh from his triumph in "The Miser's Mill," and very glad of the chance to stretch his legs after the mental anxieties of the week. He put several of the men up at his artistic bungalow and James was the life of the occasion, his stories being particularly funny. Among the invited guests at the house-party were Doctor and Mrs. James Judd, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mrs. Boedefeld, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forster, Mr. and Mrs. Hawes, Jr., Mr. Tann McGrew, Mr. James Wilder, and Mr. Edwards.

Another Engagement
An interesting engagement just announced is that of Miss Behr of California to Mr. Rufus Spaulding of Kauai.

Cards have been received as follows: Mr. James William Holtz invites you to be present at the marriage of his daughter, Allie May, to Mr. John Hastings Howland, on the afternoon of Monday, the seventh day of December, one thousand nineteen hundred and eight, at half after four o'clock, at the Reggies Street Boston Church, Roxbury, Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Blackman moved to their new residence at Kaimuki on Friday of this week. The bungalow is almost a duplicate of the one on College Hills, which is so universally admired.

Among the gayeties of the week was the bridge tea given by Mrs. Charles Wilder on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Dunning, who has so lately returned from a trip. Mrs. Dunning wore a pretty lingerie frock which was very becoming. There were three tables and silver vases were given for the highest score at each. They were won by Mrs. Wadhams, Mrs. Rees, and Mrs. Andrew Fuller. Mrs. Charles Wilder is a very attractive woman and always has about her a large coterie of friends.

Mrs. Gertrude Wilder, by the way, has gone to New York with Miss Agnes Walker. They will not return for several months.

The class to study modern plays will probably meet at Mrs. Walter Frear's after Xmas. Mrs. Philip Weaver, so cultivated and intellectual, will be the leader. Needless to say the class is very popular and constantly increasing.

Other exhibitors of merit were Mrs. H. Focke, Miss Annie Parke, Miss M. E. Shipman, Joseph I. Whittle, L. Merck Hale. The calendars, too, which were for sale, were very attractive and can be obtained

Saying Farewell

The coming departure of Doctor and Mrs. Humphris, which is so universally regretted, has been the motif of much entertaining this week, in their honor. The continued ill-health of Mrs. Humphris for the past few months has much disappointed a large contingency of friends who wished to entertain the distinguished Doctor and his pretty wife. Among those who have been fortunate enough to dine with them this week were Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Swanzy, whose beautiful dinner went off with the éclat for which that house is noted. Twelve covers encircled the table, which was exquisitely decorated with many cut-glass vases filled with double crimson carnations. A large drop light was suspended above the table, which shed a crimson glow and many tiny candles twinkled amidst the greens which entwined the flowers. The guest-cards with "Lihimana," the name of the house, engraved in crimson lettering, were dainty bits. Mrs. Swanzy looked most impressive in a black satin Princess frock embellished with rich white lace, and Mrs. Humphris wore a frock of real Irish lace over white satin, a spray of real lace in her coiffure being most becoming to her dainty and exquisite type of beauty. Mrs. Ralph Forster wore a French creation of white applique lace over mauve satin. Her hair in puffs and parted in the middle; she was extremely chic. Mrs. Robertson's dainty type looked particularly well in a Liberty-satin Empire gown trimmed in gold lace. "Bridge," of course, occupied everybody. The guests asked to meet the Humphris included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Forster, Mrs. Ashley Herman Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes, Jr., Governor Clegg, Doctor Victor Collins.

Mrs. Frear gave a delightfully informal basket supper on Thursday evening at Pearl Harbor in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Kent, who have been quite extensively entertained during their sojourn here.

Judge and Mrs. Stanley have returned from the other islands.

Mr. William G. Irwin has been spending some time in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Adrian Spivale, whose photograph is published today, is one of the attractive matrons in society who will entertain informally during the winter. Mrs. Spivale has just returned to town and will remain for the season.—Call.

A young woman well known here, as well as her husband.

Honolulu Lodge No. 616, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, respectfully invites you to be present at the Hawaiian Opera House on the afternoon of Sunday, December 6, 1908, on the occasion of the "Elks Memorial Day" services. 3 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hedemann are expected to arrive in the Mongolia on Monday. Miss Alice Hedemann is already in Cannes, France, for the winter.
